THE SUPREME COURT. Many Important Cases Before the

High Tribunal Saturday's session of the supreme court was not fraught with great interest. In the case of the Provi dence Gold Mining Company vs. Thompson, a motion to dismiss was ordered submitted.

In Wiser vs. Lawler, a motion for a statement of facts was ordered submited. Two cases of unusual importance, not alone on account of the money

They are those of J. H. Hampson, appellant, vs. Frank Dysart, treas urer and exofficio collector of Graham county, and Hampson vs. B. B. Adams, Dysart's successor in office. The history of the case is as follows: Hampson, a resident of Kansas City. is the ewner of many cattle ranges throughout the west and Mexico. He is also the owner of the Eagle Creek ranch, or the so-called Double Circle outfit in Graham county.
